CRITICISM & DISCIPLINE
Skills for Managers and Supervisors

Learn proven ways managers can bring about positive change in people with employee discipline training — without incurring resentment, making enemies or destroying relationships

Do you have employees who:
- Don’t meet deadlines?
- Cause conflict?
- Make excuses?
- Refuse to learn new skills?
- Don’t respect you?
- Drain your time and energy?
- Have a bad attitude?
- Are chronically tardy?
- Get derailed by personal problems?
- Miss work often?
- Challenge your authority?

If you answered “yes” to more than three of these questions, you have some classic problem employees on your hands. Attend this seminar and learn how to get them on track — or out of your hair. See inside for full program details.

Is your team carrying dead weight?

These days, you just can’t afford employees who drag down morale, destroy productivity and distract you from important projects.

Here’s a proven system for dealing with difficult employees once and for all.

At this seminar, you’ll learn how to:

• Approach an employee about the problem behavior in a way that minimizes accusations, hostility and defensiveness
• Create an improvement plan, and get your employee to commit to it
• Coach the employee so there’s no chance of misunderstanding
• Document the process to encourage steady progress
• Discipline, reassign or dismiss the person if the problem doesn’t improve, and handle it all fairly

With the skills you will gain at this seminar, you’ll get your problem employees to pull their own weight. You’ll eliminate weak links and reveal a fully functioning team.

Thanks to your coaching, your employees will become more productive, more satisfied and noticeably easier to work with. And that’s a good reflection on you.

Recognize these problem employees?

The bad attitudes
They complain constantly and their dismal outlook is poisoning the rest of your team. Often, they have the skills to do their work well, but they fall short when it comes to enthusiasm, energy and commitment.

The unskilled
They just don’t have the skills they need. Maybe their jobs have outgrown them. Maybe they never had the skills and it’s becoming more and more apparent, or perhaps they simply lack good judgment.

The misdirected
These employees aren’t really difficult employees at all. They work hard and demonstrate their commitment. Unfortunately, they’re confused about what you expect, or they’ve gotten distracted from their goals. They’ll be happy to perform if you can help them find the way.

At this seminar, you’ll learn how to identify the different types of problem employees. You’ll discover the hidden causes behind their difficult behavior and find out how to deal with each employee carefully and compassionately.

And best of all, you’ll learn how to correct the problem with:

• Clear standards
• Realistic action plans
• Progressive discipline

You’ll also discover the best ways to record progress (or lack thereof), so you’ll have irrefutable proof of your efforts.

22 straight-forward solutions to the employee performance problems you face:

Understanding the problem

1. What a problem employee looks like: nine symptoms to watch for
2. Emotional and psychological roots of poor performance
3. Should you wait until there is a clear pattern of problem behavior? Surprisingly, no — you’ll learn why
4. A checklist to help you determine if you’re unconsciously triggering the poor performance
5. Communication breakdowns leading to performance problems
6. How to pinpoint the causes of problem employees

Taking positive action

7. Six factors to consider when choosing corrective measures
8. Seven signs your problem employee needs more training
9. Ways to prepare yourself for confronting a problem employee
10. How to explain the problem to your employee without placing blame or causing defensiveness
11. Techniques for setting realistic, clear performance standards (so you reward the behaviors you want and discourage those you don’t)
12. Progressive discipline: what to do when initial corrective actions don’t work
13. How to develop a performance improvement plan

Handling employees who:

14. Have a bad attitude
15. Are chronically tardy
16. Miss work often
17. Refuse to take responsibility
18. Challenge your authority
19. Get derailed by personal problems

Preparing for dismissals

20. Guidelines for documenting the disciplinary process:
   • When to start
   • What to include
   • How to be consistent with company policy and employee agreements
   • When and how to use a witness
   • The right questions to ask
21. When all else fails: how to talk with employees who are not improving and help them feel better about moving on
22. How to avoid grievances, and the best ways to handle them if they do arise

These practical, proven techniques will help you solve your employees’ performance problems — once and for all. Enroll Today: www.careertrack.com
An ideal training event for your entire management team

All managers have to deal with a problem employee at some point. This seminar is an ideal way for you and your colleagues to get important training in performance management all at once.

After this seminar, you and your co-managers will speak the same language. You’ll support each other in creating action plans, managing difficult employees and applying progressive discipline.

You’ll save money, too! Tuition discounted per person for groups of 5 or more from the same organization attending the same event.

Why not suggest group attendance at your next meeting or place a request with your human resources department?

(Interested in holding a private seminar for your organization? See page 6 for the Onsite option.)

FREE DIGITAL RESOURCES FOR EVERY PARTICIPANT

Your registration includes a variety of seminar resources that highlight pertinent information. These materials are offered digitally—making learning interactive and easily accessible. Reference these materials time and time again to recall key points and problem solve.

Not sure whether to attend?

Let us answer some of your concerns.

How is this seminar structured?

Our professional curriculum designers structure every seminar for maximum learning. You’ll benefit from a carefully designed combination of:

Detailed presentation

Your trainer is skilled at involving you in the learning process. You’ll enjoy every minute of the presentation. Just sit back and take it all in.

Seminar exercises

These activities allow you to practice the performance improvement techniques as you learn them. You’ll analyze a problem employee’s behavior, develop an improvement plan and apply progressive discipline. That way you can get answers to your questions as they arise — before you try the system with your own difficult employees.

Discussion

Share your point of view. Learn from other people’s questions and ask your own. These are some of the most helpful segments of the seminar.

Is this seminar a good investment for my organization?

Absolutely. A problem employee is very costly, whether you try to live with the situation or eventually replace the person. This is especially true if you end up in court (all too common when employees are fired for attitude problems). Solve the problem, instead, with the ideas you will learn at this cost-effective, one-day training program.

Can I spare a day away from the office?

This program will actually save you time — time spent frustrated, fuming, fixing mistakes or otherwise engaged with a problem employee. If you think this seminar is worthwhile for you, plan to attend.
This is real training.

We respect your time — and your intelligence. Our course content is soundly researched and designed by professional educators for maximum adult learning.

We’re one of the largest producers of professional development programs in North America — most of the Fortune 500 train their people with us.

You get the tops in trainers.

Our faculty members receive the best training in the industry. At our seminars, you can always count on learning from knowledgeable experts who know how to teach.

You see outstanding presentation materials and resources that work.

That’s because we work with professionals — writers, editors and graphic artists — to produce them. Put ours side-by-side with reference materials from other companies, and you’ll see the difference.

You get what we promise.

We don’t lure you to our seminars with a long list of unrealistic promises. Our promotional materials are carefully cross-checked against course content for accuracy.

“CareerTrack’s material is always common sense, organized well and can be put to use immediately.”

B. Beyette, Team Leader, American Express

Attendees praise CareerTrack seminars

“The information was so timely, the examples so pertinent — I only wish I’d been exposed to the information four years ago when I became a manager at my company. Thank you!”

Ann Joyce, Director of Guest Services
Park Hyatt Los Angeles

“Very informative and provided me with other and better ways to handle difficult employees.”

Scott Herrick, Owner
Arena Systems

“Excellent. Best I’ve ever attended. Highly recommend to other Authority managers.”
