Attention Medical and Dental Professionals:

OSHA has developed today's medical and dental practice standards to ensure a safe, hazard-free environment for you, your staff and your patients. You may be "pretty sure" or "almost certain" you're in compliance with OSHA's latest standards, but with OSHA, there's no margin for error. This seminar was designed to cut through the confusion and hone in on what you need to know to ensure your practice is fully compliant.

Non-compliance with OSHA is serious business and can cost your practice dearly. In fact, a single citation for a serious violation can carry a monetary penalty of up to $7,000, while repeat violations may reach upwards of $70,000!

Don't just think you're in compliance ... know you are!

OSHA Compliance 2021 for Healthcare Professionals is packed with critical information, tools and techniques to help medical and dental professionals avoid fines and penalties, and ensure their practices are in complete compliance with OSHA standards.

In addition to complying with OSHA's general industry standards, medical and dental practices must also follow the OSHA guidelines, rules and regulations that apply specifically to medical hazards, risks and safety procedures.

Attend this seminar, and gain the very latest information on OSHA rules, regulations and guidelines for medical and dental practices. You'll learn how to:

- Log employee incidents properly
- Maintain records in accordance with OSHA's record-keeping requirements
- Pinpoint hidden or overlooked safety and health issues
- Establish a Hazard Communication program to keep hazard awareness current
- Ensure your practice is up-to-date on BBP, Needlestick and Other Potentially Infectious Materials (OPIM) regulations
- Comply with Exit Route standards — signage, lighting, diagrams, markings
- Prepare for an OSHA inspection
- Promote a culture of safety throughout your entire practice

Just one day of focused training ensures your practice is OSHA compliant and inspection-ready.

We know how busy a thriving medical or dental practice can be. Dealing with patient issues, scheduling concerns, emergencies and more — some days there's little or no time to take a deep breath, let alone schedule lengthy training sessions for staff members. That's why we've created this comprehensive, one-day program. In one day, you're in, you're out and you're on your way!

If you're wondering if it's really possible to cover all of OSHA's rules, regulations and requirements for healthcare professionals in just one day of training, the answer is a resounding "yes!" By focusing on solid, need-to-know facts, figures and information, we've created a streamlined, powerful training program covering all you need to know to remain OSHA compliant. We'll cover the Bloodborne Pathogens Standard, Needlestick Act, record-keeping practices and other OSHA industry standards that apply to medical and dental practices.

Is your practice at risk for an onsite OSHA inspection?

What you learn here will help ensure your practice and your employees are up to speed on OSHA's latest rules, regulations and record-keeping requirements as they pertain to the healthcare industry. Through onsite inspections and record-keeping reviews, OSHA inspectors can determine if your practice is complying with OSHA standards and requirements. While the majority of OSHA complaints are informal and can be handled over the phone, OSHA inspectors will do an onsite inspection if they suspect abatement procedures have not been followed properly, or if they receive a formal complaint from an employee or patient. From the opening conference to abatement procedures, we'll walk you through the inspection process and give you the knowledge you need to remain inspection-ready when OSHA officials come calling.

OSHA has bumped up onsite inspections, tightened record-keeping requirements and made identifying violations a top priority. Make sure your healthcare practice is ready when OSHA comes calling — register for this seminar today!
