Presentations are precious opportunities.
They’re your “day in the sun” to sell, persuade, inform, educate, attract and entertain. If you botch a presentation, you seldom get a second chance to do it over.

Amateur presenters make the mistake of thinking that the more multimedia wizardry they can squeeze into their presentations, the more effective they will be. Not true. No amount of technological pyrotechnics can make up for poor organization or weak delivery skills.

This course shows you how to use the incredible capabilities of PowerPoint to put together presentations that are …

Well-constructed
You’ll learn tips for organizing your material before you begin … the best methods for viewing and controlling the flow of your presentation and for arranging and rearranging elements … ways to set the tone and choose the language that fits your audience … and how to arrive at the format and style that are best suited for your topic.

Engaging and entertaining
We’ll show you the special effects — sound, animation, even some effects you can create on your own — that generate the suspense and surprise that keep people on their toes and glued to a presentation.

Pleasing to the eye
You’ll learn which types of treatments work and which don’t … how to use SmartArt to illustrate your message … ways to make your transitions smooth yet visually powerful. You will see how to animate text, art, graphs and diagrams and how to embed text in virtually any object.

Properly paced
You’ll learn about PowerPoint overkill and how to avoid the temptation to give your audience members far more razzle-dazzle than they can tolerate. You’ll see how to intersperse animation, sound and design elements wisely, so they complement your message rather than detract from it.

Unmistakably clear in their message
You’ll learn ways to simplify complex concepts … how to display number-heavy data using charts, graphs and SmartArt … and techniques for using sound and narrative to explain and embellish key points. To top it all off, you’ll find out how to run effective meetings using PowerPoint and how to customize a presentation “on the fly” to meet your audience’s needs.
We search out the best:
Our extensive and ongoing recruitment program ensures that the best of the best lead every one of our seminars. We look for — and find — those professionals who meet our exacting standards for powerful presentation skills, real-world business experience, top professional credentials and training acumen.
Each and every prospective seminar leader passes through a demanding, multi-level screening and audition process ... a process that guarantees only the most talented, capable trainers become part of our team.

Experience plus training:
Our seminar leaders have some of the best qualifications in the business. All of our trainers are experienced, high-achieving professionals ... but we don’t stop there. Ongoing training and support are major reasons why our trainers have so much to offer.
Our seminar leaders remain on the cutting edge of business and management through extensive study, networking and workshops. Before presenting even one seminar, each trainer completes a rigorous certification process. We are highly committed to an exceptional seminar leader training program — both before and after they’re a part of our team.

Energetic and stimulating:
We know you’re coming to our seminars to learn, but that doesn’t mean they can’t be fun, too. That’s why we bring you speakers who are lively, energetic and exciting. We make it a point to recruit charismatic, dynamic speakers who grab your attention and keep it for an entire day.

Sound easy? It is.
We’ve made this course as user-friendly as PowerPoint itself.
Whether you present for a living ... present occasionally ... or have never presented before, enhanced PowerPoint skills will make your job easier — and your presentations far more professional.

“Computer-less” training makes every moment count.
This is not hands-on training, and here’s why: Everyone works on computers at different speeds. Some like to experiment on their own; others get lost easily and need frequent help. In the long run, a hands-on software class only slows everyone down. Your seminar leader will keep things moving by projecting key points onto a large, viewer-friendly screen at the front of the class.
